French Police Take Sorbonne; Peace Sighted

PARIS (AP) — The Sorbonne, symbol of France's student revolt, fell to the gendarmes Sunday after a month's occupation, and today a student organization said it would halt street fighting, recognizing "that the students alone cannot continue the battle without support."

Angry students had battled the police again in the Latin Quarter Sunday night after the authorities had forced out the last 150 occupiers, hauled down the red and black flags of revolution and anarchy, and run up the French blue, white and red tricolor.

A break was also apparently at hand among striking auto-workers, die-hard holdouts of last month's national strike. About 65,000 workers at the state-run Renault plants were reported voting in favor of return to work on the basis of a 10 per cent salary increase by Oct. 1 and reduction of their work week.

The National Students Union — UNEF — made its declaration of peaceful intentions, barring further "provocation," while police hygiene squads began cleaning up what they said was an "indescribable mess" in the Sorbonne. Classes are expected to resume in a week.

The lecture halls were strewn with stale bits of bread, rotten apples, empty bottles and other trash. The library was a shambles.

In a radio interview, Premier Georges Pompidou put in a new plug for a massive government majority in legislative elections beginning next Sunday. Only with such a majority, Pompidou said, can necessary reforms be made in universities and other sectors of French society.

The fighting Sunday night involved hit-and-run skirmishes by bands of young people. But the police did not let the students establish any fixed positions during three hours of battle and chased them off the main boulevards. Faced with an uneven match, student leaders dispersed their followers.

Romney Signs Court Measure

LANEING (AP) — Gov. George Romney today signed into law a bill establishing a district court system in Michigan.

The action ended months of legislative controversy over how to delegate jurisdiction of minor violation cases and arraignment of felons handled by justices of the peace.

Under the state constitution, justice courts will be abolished at the end of this year.

The bill signed into law today creates a district court system that will eliminate municipal courts in 40 cities. In addition, 37 cities have the option of closing down their own courts and joining the district court system.

Only Detroit is excluded from the plan.

The bill permits only lawyers to run for district court judgeships.

The new judicial system will be inferior to circuit courts, and permits election of up to 152 lawyer-judges to the newly created benches.

Judges will receive a minimum salary of $10,000 a year, paid by the state. Local governmental units can supplement salaries to bring them up to a maximum of $27,500 per year.

Attorneys elected to district court benches are forbidden to practice law on the side.

Rusk Hospitalized To Undergo Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk entered Walter Reed Army Hospital Sunday for two or three days of tests "in connection with what appears to be a low-grade infection in the urinary tract," according to a department spokesman.

Press officer Robert J. McCloskey declined to give further details about Rusk's illness, but he did say the secretary intends to attend the North Atlantic Treaty Organization's ministerial council meeting Saturday in Reykjavik, Iceland.

Rusk was given a clean bill of health in April when he spent several days in Walter Reed undergoing a complete medical examination.

Pennsylvania's Governor Joins Rocky Backers

By The Associated Press
New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has won a big-state endorsement from Pennsylvania Gov. Ray P. Shafer for his GOP presidential bid—but acknowledges a drive for such backing could give new delegates to rival Richard M. Nixon.

Shafer announced the endorsement at the end of the Republican Governors Association Conference at Tulsa, Okla., over the weekend and estimated 45 to 50 of Pennsylvania's 64 Republican delegates would join him in backing Rockefeller.

Said Rockefeller: "In the last week, my campaign has really taken off." But he said further endorsements from governors who are now favorite sons could also release delegates to join Nixon's already substantial block of nominating votes.

"There is a delicate balance," he said.

Nixon's campaign manager, John Mitchell, said meanwhile the former vice president already has "more than enough delegates" to win the GOP presidential nomination and "will not engage in an exchange of charge and countercharge with Rockefeller."

Nixon is 29 short

Newsweek magazine said Sunday its tabulation shows Nixon only 29 votes short of the 697 needed for nomination, with 573 delegates favoring Nixon, 233 Rockefeller and 146 California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

On the Democratic side, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy indicates he plans to step up his presidential bid against Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey by pressing questions on Vietnam and other issues he has raised.

Former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace returned his third party presidential campaign to the South-Richmond, Va.—today after saying in Washington he would emphasize law enforcement, rather than gun laws, as president.

"If I got to be president," Wallace said, "I'm going to stand with the police and we're going to have an orderly society."

New York Primary
He was interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers."

As the candidates campaigned, New Yorkers prepared to decide the last of the major presidential primaries Tuesday—with 133 Democratic and 88 Republican delegate seats at stake.

Democratic State Chairman John J. Burns said New York delegates states formerly pledged to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will remain supporters of his principles. McCarthy backers predicted they would win 49 to 60 delegates and Humphrey states were entered in 26 of the 41 congressional districts.

Rockefeller is challenged by Nixon delegate candidates for only 11 of the 88 GOP seats at stake.

Claim Red Copters Blasted Near DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. military headquarters said today that aircraft "suspected to be enemy helicopters" were fired on during the weekend near the demilitarized zone that divides Vietnam.

A brief announcement added that a daylight reconnaissance was made today to ascertain damage and obtain other information, but "no results are available."

The statement from the military command tended to partly confirm other reports that from 2 to 15 Russian-built helicopters had been downed over the weekend south of the DMZ.

However, the announcement from U.S. headquarters said the aircraft were shot by radar near the eastern end of the DMZ and south of the Iron River, meaning that they were over the demilitarized zone itself or to the north.

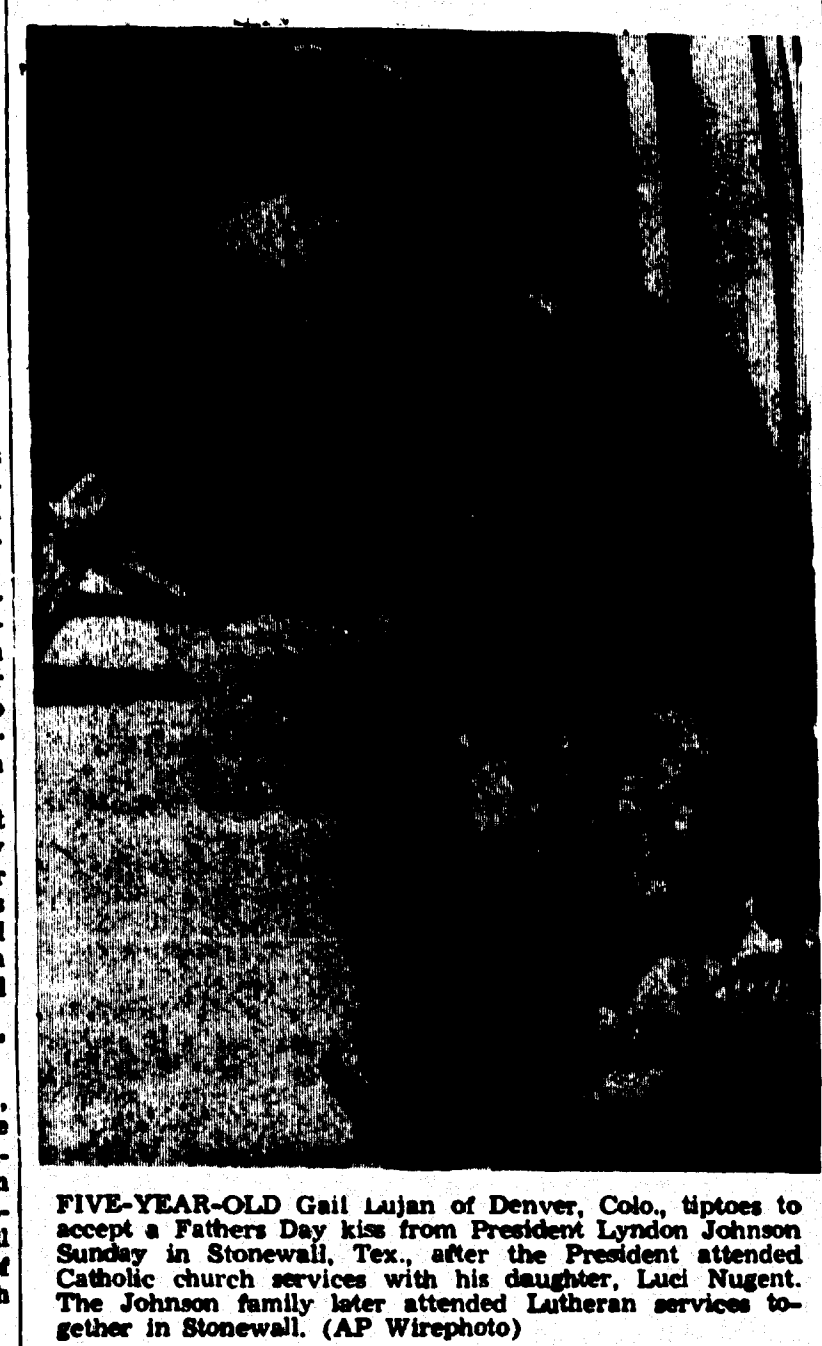

Clare Lad Elected Boys State Head

EAST LANSING (AP) — Robert Hartley, 17, Clare, was elected Sunday to be 31st governor of the American Legion Wolverine Boys State in East Lansing.

Others elected included James Zeoli, Grand Rapids, lieutenant governor; John Barfield, Tipton, secretary of state; and Robert Vandenberg, Grand Rapids, attorney general.

Six in all were downed in the South China Sea, one crashed on the beach and two went down further inland.

In the ground war, grenade-throwing South Vietnamese troops raced from bunker to bunker to wipe out a Viet Cong stronghold in a Saigon suburb.

2nd Major Heart Attack Hits Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was reported today to have remained "alert and in good spirits" since his heart attack on Saturday night. His heart rate and respiration have remained stable.

"There has been no recurrence of pain since the initial episode the night of June 15th," a medical bulletin from the hospital said. "No signs of heart failure have appeared."

The new seizure was Eisenhower's second within two months.

Doctors did not minimize the danger although stable usually means the patient's treatment and condition are satisfactory.

Maj. George Foster, public affairs officer at the hospital, said in answer to a question doctors said they considered this "a major" attack.

The attack came Saturday night at Walter Reed, where the 77-year-old five-star general was recuperating from a mild heart seizure which struck him April 20 at Palm Desert, Calif., where he keeps a winter home.

"Condition Stable"

In the Sunday announcement disclosing the latest attack, the hospital said, "The general spent a comfortable night and his present condition is stable."

The hospital Sunday said there was no change in this report.

Release Delayed
Eisenhower was taken to Walter Reed by Air Force plane May 14 after his doctors indicated he had recovered enough from his April 29 attack, described as a myocardial infarction, or blockage of an artery in the heart, to be moved.

Johnson For Tough Law To Restrict Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pressure for tougher gun control laws continues to build across the nation, but one presidential candidate has called for caution in framing the bills and the National Rifle Association has started a campaign against stiffer legislation.

President Johnson over the weekend ordered a top-priority campaign to get Congress to pass an administration-proposed bill restricting the sale of rifles and other long guns.

Presidential aide Joseph A. Califano Jr., told newsmen at the Texas White House Saturday that "there will be no stone thrown in trying to get this passed. There will be total involvement, not only of the attorney general and the Justice Department but also of the President himself."

NRA Plans Campaign
But the leading opponent of strong gun-control laws, the National Rifle Association, plans a letter-writing drive to get its 900,000 members to inundate Congress with mail against the bill.

Past efforts by the NRA have been singularly successful. But there are indications that this time the organization will have tougher going as the public continues to press for the stiffer laws in the wake of the pistol slaying of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, running for the Democratic presidential nomination, while calling for new laws, warned against legislation passed "under panic conditions."

For Registration
The Minnesota senator said Sunday he is for a federal program of registration of "sidearms and on what would be considered heavy guns." States also should pass stronger laws or enforce those now on the books, McCarthy said.

There was one incident Sunday in Battle Creek, Mich., where a man from a Roman Catholic priest to his parishioners that they turn in their guns to be destroyed went unheeded.

In two sermons Sunday, the Rev. John Huhn, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's church, asked the 1,000 parishioners to "turn over their weapons of violence." Nobody did.

Expressing disappointment, the Rev. Huhn said "perhaps it was just a general reluctance or fear ... to stand up publicly and do something."

Massacre Aids
In addition to the President's bill, which is up for reconsideration in the House Judiciary Committee Thursday after being blocked by a tie vote last week, even tougher legislation is before Congress.

One bill, sponsored by Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., and nine other senators, picked up an influential backer when Sen. Majority leader Mike Mansfield added his support Saturday.

The Tydings bill provides for federal registration and a permit for all firearms, unless states pass their own registration laws.

President Johnson's bill is far less stringent in calling for a ban on mail-order sale of handguns, now contained in the omnibus crime bill, to be extended to "long guns."

Auto Crashes Take 23 Lives

By The Associated Press
The deaths of three youngsters from the same family were among at least 20 traffic fatalities over the weekend in Michigan.

Killed in the triple fatality were Steven Young, 8; his 15-year-old sister Mary Pauline, and their stepmother, Tamara Lee Homingway, 3, all of Flint. They died in a two-car collision northeast of Flint Saturday.

The Associated Press count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended midnight Sunday.

Detroit Printers Reject Mediator Settlement Plan

DETROIT (AP) — Amid what was described as union bitterness reminiscent of the 1930s, Detroit's marathon newspaper shutdown entered its 215th day today, with no new negotiations scheduled between publishers and strikers.

The nationally known labor expert's attempt to bring agreement on new contracts blew up Sunday.

Four striking unions rejected recommendations of Dr. Nathan Feinsinger as "a framework for settlement," holding they were economically unfair. Publishers of the morning Free Press and evening News accepted them.

Included was a proposed 339 weekly increase in wages and fringe benefits, spread over the next three years. A union spokesman said a $43 package would be necessary.

Feinsinger returned to his law professorship at the University of Wisconsin following the rejection and failure of unions to reconsider it.

At a midnight news conference Saturday, Feinsinger had said he would call for further bargaining if his proposals were accepted before noon Sunday, by the unions as a framework around which new negotiations could revolve.

Feinsinger said he had refused to believe reports of the depth of bitterness prevailing until he had experienced it. He told reporters at a final news conference the rancor he found reminded him of the labor-management of the 1930s.

Not only, he said, did he find bitterness between publishers and unions but among unions themselves.

He added, there was bitterness on the part of leaders of striking printers, pressmen, photoengravers and paper and plate handlers against the Teamsters Union.

Suggest Death Answer Guide

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A life-and-death scorecard has been suggested by a doctor as one way to answer the difficult medical and ethical question: When is a patient dead and his organs available for transplants?

The suggestion came from Dr. Vincent J. Collins, professor of anesthesiology at Northwestern University School of Medicine, at a panel discussion at the annual convention of the American Medical Association.

This was his proposal: The patient's heart, brain, lungs, circulation and reflex activity would be monitored for one or two hours. Brain activity would be scored 2 if normal, 1 if depressed and 0 if stopped.

A score of 5 or more would indicate continuing life. Less than 5 would mean death was near. And 0 would be a sure indication of death.

Collins suggested that such a system could provide an answer for transplant surgeons seeking a common standard to determine if a potential donor is in fact dead.

Collins was one of three specialists who discussed moral and legal problems in "Medicine and Religion" here Sunday.

Kiesinger Asks LBJ Help In Berlin Squeeze

BONN (AP) — The West German Cabinet searched today for ways to combat the new Communist squeeze on West Berlin as the isolated city and the western half of Germany marked the anniversary of the 1963 uprising in East Germany.

Officials said Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger might fly to Washington to talk to President Johnson about the situation. The government announced Friday that Kiesinger would write or telephone the president, but officials now are talking about a personal visit to dramatize West Germany's concern.

Kiesinger called his Cabinet together to discuss what to do about the new Communist taxes and restrictions on surface travel between West Germany and West Berlin. Parliament is to debate the situation later in the week.

The United States, Britain and France have protested the East German regulations, which include passports by July 15 for all West Germans and West Berliners traveling by surface routes, visas and increased taxes and travel costs on German goods shipped overland. Kiesinger announced that his government would pay the increases, which are estimated at $18.5 million a year.

Chrysler Put On Jordan Blacklist

The government warned Chrysler to cut its relations with Israel.

Mich-Con Struck By 640 Employees

GRAND RAPIDS (AP) — Some 640 members of the International Chemical Workers Union were on strike today against the Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. in northern and western Michigan, but the firm said there would be no interruption of service.

The workers walked out after rejecting a new contract offer from the company. The old contract expired at 12:01 a.m. Sunday.

A company spokesman said Michigan Consolidated had offered the workers an average wage of 56 cents an hour over three years plus fringe benefits. He also said Upper Peninsula employees were offered an extra 18 cents an hour to equalize wage differentials.

The union had demanded a 70-cent wage and fringe benefit package in a two-year contract, according to the spokesman.

Unions involved in the strike are Local 79, Local 128, and Local 70. Local 70 represents 61 employees in the Muskegon district. Local 128 represents 280 workers in the Grand Rapids district. Local 79 covers 141 members in the northern half of the Lower Peninsula and in the Upper Peninsula.

The employees are primarily those involved in maintenance of underground pipelines, distribution workers, servicemen and meter readers.

The company said it plans to use supervisory and other non-union personnel to maintain essential services. There will be no interruption of service, it said.

Pennsylvania's Governor Joins Rocky Backers

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has won a big-state endorsement from Pennsylvania Gov. Ray P. Shafer for his GOP presidential bid—but acknowledges a drive for such backing could give new delegates to rival Richard M. Nixon.

One indication that the attack was not considered grave came in the announcement by the hospital that Eisenhower's original plans to return June 24 to his Gettysburg, Pa., home will be delayed, seemingly implying that doctors expect the move to be made later on.

Also, when the former president was considered in more dangerous condition the medical bulletins were issued at much more frequent intervals than the 24 hours between the first announcement and the second report, scheduled at 10:30 a.m. today.

Mansfield Aids

In addition to the President's bill, which is up for reconsideration in the House Judiciary Committee Thursday after being blocked by a tie vote last week, even tougher legislation is before Congress.

One bill, sponsored by Sen. Joseph D. Tydings, D-Md., and nine other senators, picked up an influential backer when Senate Majority leader Mike Mansfield added his support Saturday.

The Tydings bill provides for federal registration and a permit for all firearms, unless states pass their own registration laws.

President Johnson's bill is far less stringent in calling for a ban on mail-order sale of handguns, now contained in the omnibus crime bill, to be extended to "jungle guns."

Auto Crashes Take 23 Lives

By The Associated Press

The deaths of three youngsters from the same family were among at least 23 traffic fatalities over the weekend in Michigan.

Killed in the triple fatality were Steven Young, 8; his 18-year-old sister Mary Patricia, and their stepister, Tamara Lee Hemmingway, 3, all of Flint. They died in a two-car collision northeast of Flint Saturday.

The Associated Press count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended midnight Sunday.

Suggest Death Answer Guide

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A life-and-death scorecard has been suggested by a doctor as one way to answer the difficult medical and ethical question: When is a patient dead and his organs available for transplants?

The suggestion came from Dr. Vincent J. Collins, professor of anesthesia at Northwestern University School of Medicine, at a panel discussion at the annual convention of the American Medical Association.

This was his proposal: The patient's heart, brain, lungs, circulation and reflex activity would be monitored for one or two hours. Each activity would be scored 2 if normal, 1 if depressed and 0 if stopped.

A score of 5 or more would indicate continuing life. Less than 5 would mean death was near. And 0 would be a sure indication of death.

Collins suggested that such a system could provide an answer for transplant surgeons seeking a common standard to determine if a potential donor is in fact dead.

Collins was one of three specialists who discussed moral and legal problems in "Medicine and Religion" here Sunday.

Charles Varnum Announces He'll Seek 2nd Term

State Rep. Charles H. Varnum (R-Manistiquie) today announced that he will be a candidate for re-election.

Varnum stressed in his announcement his role in the effort to lower tolls on the Mackinac Bridge.

"This has to rate as one of the most important pieces of legislation in the past decade," Varnum said. "I vowed when I came to Lansing to work until we were successful in reducing the tolls. This single act will do more than any other to bring the Upper Peninsula fully into the State of Michigan, and will aid the economies of both Upper and Lower Michigan."

Tolls on the bridge will be reduced from $3.75 to $1.50 for a one way trip beginning next January, as a result of passage of the bridge amendment. Attempts to gain this toll reduction in the Legislature had met with failure for 18 years.

A first term legislator, Varnum serves on the important House Appropriations Committee. Because of the workload and responsibilities of the committee, Appropriations members serve only on that single committee.

Varnum said that in the past two years more highway and college construction funds have been approved for the U. P. than in any other two-year period in history, including the library building for Lake Superior State College at Sault Ste. Marie.

Varnum also cited his work to bring coho salmon sport-fishing into the 107th District.

Charles H. Varnum

Some of the major plantings of this fish are in Delta and Schoolcraft counties.

A former school teacher and now a full time legislator, Varnum was named Outstanding Young Man of the Year in 1965 by the Manistiquie Jaycees. He is married and he and his wife, Sherri, have two children, Barbara and Mitchell. He is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Rotary Club, Elks, Michigan Education Association and Teachers Association.

Furnace Firm Sets Rebuilding

HOLLAND (AP)—An immediate rebuilding program has been planned at the Home Furnace Co.'s headquarters plant in Holland, after fire destroyed two-thirds of the factory and caused up to $3 million in damages, the firm's president said Sunday.

Clarence Becker, head of Home Furnace Co., also said police were investigating a report that children might have accidentally touched off the fire while playing Saturday.

"It looks like we'll be producing by the end of the week," he said.

He said he hopes they can reach 75 per cent of production of mobile home and residential heating and air conditioning systems during the rebuilding period.

Company officials hope to meet with the 240 employees today to outline plans to clean up the debris, and to begin production.

Timber Project Seeks Manager

Upper Great Lakes Timber Inc. is seeking a general manager for its timber demonstration project.

The purpose of this project is to demonstrate practical ways to develop a strong, stable, and competitive forest products industry in the Upper Great Lakes Region. It would seek ways to make maximum use of timber and would experiment in harvesting, distribution, processing, and marketing of wood and wood products.

The project will be financed by the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission on a year-to-year basis for a minimum of three years and maximum of five.

"No one looking for built-in security, 8 to 9 hours, and a no-hum work routine need apply," said the unpaid directors of the non-profit corporation.

Applicants should send for job description and application blank to Operation Action U.P.,

Box 128, Marquette, Michigan 49855, or telephone 906-223-1046. The completed applications must be received on or before July 8.

Upper Great Lakes Timber Inc. is the first agency of the Upper Great Lakes Regional Commission created in Michigan to serve the three state region of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota in this "Little Appalachia" federal project. The aim of the commission is to stimulate economic development of the region, and the wood demonstration project is being set up to show how greater profits and more job stability and income can be generated in this basic industry.

Mrs. Carson Is Kalamazoo Grad

KALAMAZOO — More than 230 seniors received Bachelor of Arts degrees at Kalamazoo College's 132nd commencement exercises Sunday.

Constantinos A. Doxiadis, city planner, delivered the commencement address. The Class of 1968 is the fourth class to complete four years of study under the unique "Kalamazoo Plan" for year-around education.

More than 90 per cent of the 1968 class members studied in one of the 10 foreign countries.

Mrs. Patricia Fitzharris Carson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Fitzharris, 700 Lake Shore Drive, Escanaba, majored in French. She wrote a thesis for her senior independent project in her field of major. During her junior year, under the college foreign study program, she studied in Strasbourg, France. Her college activities include Kappa Pi Society.

Bay Faculty Man At Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — George A. Peterson, a member of the faculty of Bay de Noc Community College, has been chosen one of 35 teachers from junior and two-year community colleges to attend a six-week mathematics institute here this summer. The institute is supported by a grant from the National Science Foundation.

Mead To Buy Pipe Company

DAYTON, O.—H. E. Whitaker, chairman of the Board of Mead Corp., and W. R. Bond, president of Woodward Corp., announced today that directors of both corporations have unanimously agreed in principle on joining of the two corporations.

The proposal is subject to the execution of a satisfactory agreement which will be submitted to the stockholders of both corporations.

The proposed acquisition will be tax-free and provides for the exchange by Mead of 9 of a new voting cumulative preferred share of Woodward for each share of Woodward common stock.

On the basis of recent prices of the present Mead voting cumulative preferred, each share of Woodward would be worth approximately $47 in the exchange.

Negotiations were opened with Mead after a Combustion Engineering, Inc. offer had been rejected by the Woodward board. The Woodward board had reviewed the Jim Walter Corp. proposal but had concluded that integration of the Woodward properties with Mead appeared to be more in the interest of Woodward and its stockholders.

Whitaker stated that Mead's interest in Woodward predicated its knowledge of both the Combustion Engineering, Inc. and Jim Walter offers, and further stated, "This move is consistent with Mead's policy of diversification."

He noted that Woodward business is cast iron pipe and fittings related to the transmission of fluids (which, in turn, largely correlate with housing and urban development) and castings used in the automotive and related fields. Whitaker also was highly complimentary as to the management of Woodward and stated that he expected the Woodward business to continue to be operated from Birmingham under its present management.

Ruppe Declares As Congressman

Congressman Philip E. Ruppe (R-Houghton) announced today that he is a candidate for re-election to a second term in Michigan's 11th Congressional District.

Ruppe said "We are now in the midst of one of the most difficult periods this nation has ever faced. It is a time of growing inflation. It is a time of growing crime and civil disorder and political assassination. It is a time of war. It is a time that calls for vigorous and imaginative leadership. It is a time that calls for political honesty — telling it like it is."

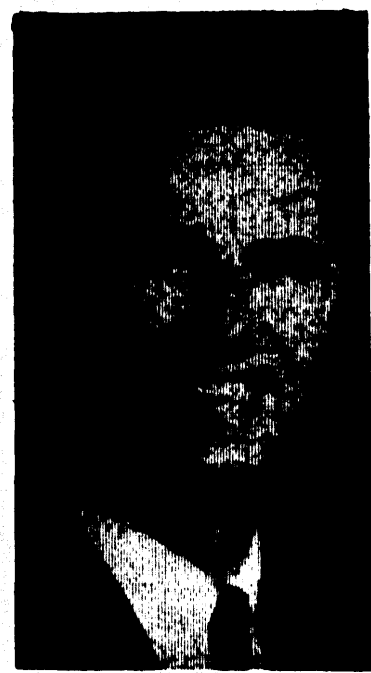

On inflation, he said he is working in Congress "for a re-ordering of our national spending priorities to meet urgent human and economic needs while slashing out the fat." Ruppe said the Vietnam war is draining our resources. "The South Vietnamese," Ruppe said, "must shoulder major responsibility for the fighting." He listed his votes for anti-crime and anti-riot legislation to help police make the streets safer.

Ruppe is pressing for automatic increases in Social Security when the cost of living goes up. "We have got to show compassion and interest in our senior citizens," he said. He also listed his efforts to upgrade vocational education and utilize the resources of private enterprise in upgrading the unemployed and under-employed, stating, "The goal should not be welfare, but training and an opportunity for a decent job for all Americans."

Ruppe stated that while much work lies ahead in the economic development of Northern Michigan, "lower tolls on the Mackinac Bridge, a salmon fishing boom, new industries, road planning and airport development all give hope to a bright future."

The congressman stated that through newsletters, questionnaires, mail, office hours and news columns, he has been trying to bring government closer to the people. "I have been striving to give personal service that will make me your Philip E. Ruppe representative to Washington, not Washington's representative to you.

Ruppe, a native of the Copper Country, has been a lifelong resident of Northern Michigan. He served two stints in the Navy in World War II and the Korean War. He attended Central Michigan University, and graduated from Yale in 1948. Ruppe was president of Bosch Brewing Co., a family business in Houghton, prior to his election to the 90th Congress in 1966. In the House of Representatives, he was appointed to the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee and the Post Office and Civil Service Committee. In an honor for a new Congressman, Ruppe was elected to the Republican Policy Committee of the House of Representatives. He represents the 60 new Republican congressmen on that key policy making panel.

Ruppe, 41, is married to the former Loret Miller of Milwaukee, and has five daughters, ages two through eight.

Congressman Ruppe said he plans "to wage a vigorous full-time campaign just as soon as Congress adjourns." He said that personally and through the media, "I plan to lay my views and the job I am doing on the line, and ask for the consideration and vote of every citizen in Northern Michigan."

Roy Jensen At Fisheries Meet

Roy Jensen of Escanaba, executive secretary of the Michigan Fish Producers Association and a Michigan advisor to the International Great Lakes Fisheries Commission left today to attend the annual meeting of the latter group opening in Toronto Tuesday.

Major items on the agenda are the differences of policy of Michigan and Ohio vs. Ontario on Lake Erie walleye controls, and the relationship of lake trout plantation in Lakes Superior and Michigan and lamprey control. Jensen said that the lake trout restocking program has been going along well, but that lampreys are beginning to resurface and a lamprey kickback from the extermination efforts is feared by some observers.

Ruppe Declares As Congressman

Congressman Philip E. Ruppe (R-Houghton) announced today that he is a candidate for reelection to a second term in Michigan's 11th Congressional District.

Ruppe said "We are now in the midst of one of the most difficult periods this nation has ever faced. It is a time of growing crime and civil disorder and political assassination. It is a time of war. It is a time that calls for vigorous and imaginative leadership. It is a time that calls for political honesty — telling it like it is."

On inflation, he said he is working in Congress "for a re-ordering of our national spending priorities to meet urgent human and economic needs while slashing out the fat." Ruppe said the Vietnam war is draining our resources. "The South Vietnamese," Ruppe said, "must shoulder major responsibility for the fighting." He listed his votes for anti-crime and anti-riot legislation to help police make the streets safer.

Ruppe is pressing for automatic increases in Social Security when the cost of living goes up. "We have got to show compassion and interest in our senior citizens," he said. He also listed his efforts to upgrade vocational education and utilize the resources of private enterprise in upgrading the unemployed and under-employed, stating, "The goal should not be welfare, but training and an opportunity for a decent job for all Americans."

Ruppe stated that while much work lies ahead in the economic development of Northern Michigan, "lower tolls on the Mackinac Bridge, a salmon fishing boom, new industries, road planning and airport development all give hope to a bright future."

The congressman stated that through newsletters, questionnaires, mail, office hours and news columns, he has been trying to bring government closer to the people. "I have been striving to give personal service that will make me your representative to Washington, not Washington's representative to you."

Ruppe, a native of the Copper Country, has been a lifelong resident of Northern Michigan. He served two stints in the Navy in World War II and the Korean War. He attended Central Michigan University, and graduated from Yale in 1948. Ruppe was president of Bosch Brewing Co., a family business in Houghton, prior to his election to the 90th Congress in 1966. In the House of Representatives, he was appointed to the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee and the Post Office and Civil Service Committee. In an honor for a new Congressman, Ruppe was elected to the Republican Policy Committee of the House of Representatives. He represents the 60 new Republican congressmen on that key policy making panel.

Ruppe, 41, is married to the former Loret Miller of Milwaukee, and has five daughters, ages two through eight.

Congressman Ruppe said he plans "to wage a vigorous full-time campaign just as soon as Congress adjourns." He said that personally and through the media, "I plan to lay my views and the job I am doing on the line, and ask for the consideration and vote of every citizen in Northern Michigan."

Roy Jensen At Fisheries Meet

Roy Jensen of Escanaba, executive secretary of the Michigan Fish Producers Association and a Michigan advisor to the International Great Lakes Fisheries Commission left today to attend the annual meeting of the latter group opening in Toronto Tuesday.

Major items on the agenda are the differences of policy of Michigan and Ohio vs. Ontario on Lake Erie walleye controls, and the relationship of lake trout plantation in Lakes Superior and Michigan and lamprey control. Jensen said that the lake trout restocking program has been going along well, but that lampreys are beginning to reappear and a lamprey kickback from the extermination efforts is feared by some observers.

Unions Saving Us?

The labor unions have unquestionably contributed to the unrest that plagues America and that breaks out in campus riots and race disturbances, in public cynicism and fear and great national uncertainties. This could hardly be otherwise because labor unions have become a major influence in the national fabric of both our way of work and our way of living.

But it seems to us that our labor unions have in them the makings of our national salvation in this great time of trial when America has become the richest and most powerful nation in the history of the world, but fearful that it is developing troubles within itself. These are indicated by the violence of youth's rejection of the adult nation's scale of values.

The troubles in France have been an eye-opener to Americans as well as to Frenchmen. Its vaunted stability came apart like a house of cards in a national strike started by the students and picked up by the labor unions. The solution is going to increase inflation in France and make her less competitive with the other nations of the European Common Market.

France had a poor system of higher education; spent too little on it, on housing and other domestic needs because of Charles DeGaulle's insistence that France make its "Fifth Republic" a thing of glory in the old Gallic tradition of grandeur, with its own nuclear armaments and other gosh awful costly things which really are only for super powers and burdensome even to them.

France's unions are commie influenced in a way that ours are not and they have not been as powerful in national councils, legislation and economic influence as American unions have been. Our unions have raised the American workingman to an income level where he is the envy of the world and earning more than a lot of white collar workers. In the process labor has created the best market in the world here in America, extending the affluence by providing an outlet for our tremendous powers of goods production.

A benefit which history may regard as equally important with the money miracle, or even moreso, is the confidence which unions have created in their membership. Workers feel that they are being protected in an industrial situation and that the ownership and management of industry are being forced to share earnings equitably with them.

This process has been abused, of course. (Earlier there were examples of managerial abuse). But it has created a system of balances which strengthens America. There can be no sensible feeling in this country that Big Industry controls Big Government and that they're in an unholy alliance to use the workers for their needs. Big Labor is more potent politically than Big Industry because of the numbers of its members and their solidarity.

The immense power of unions in this country has not always been used with a responsibility which alone can make use of that power safe for the nation. There has been criminality and ruthlessness. Government has been somewhat servile toward labor. It has won the big ones when it fought crime in unionism, but it hasn't prevailed in its efforts to keep union pay grabbing within healthy limits.

The unending rash of strikes in which we live is an evidence of wasteful friction in our bargaining process. When Engine Charlie Wilson said that he thought what was good for General Motors was good for the nation he was clobbered, but we've accepted the same principle from the unions. They have flaunted the federal government's effort to relate wage increases to production increases so they wouldn't be inflationary and self-defeating.

Unionism is using its muscle. Elsewhere the process has usually led to labor government and then unhappiness because the national economic system tried to meet the demands of the workers instead of those of the market. (We can see the process at work today in the increasing volume of foreign steel imports in the U.S.) Labor can extend its great contribution to American stability and strength by remembering that the national interest cannot be ignored safely; unions may run the country, but if they run it poorly they won't fare well themselves.

Can a lung cancer patient, an ex-smoker, collect damages for his condition from a cigarette manufacturer? The answer is yes.

The answer was stated in a court decision not long ago.

Nearly 10 years ago, a suit was filed against a cigarette manufacturing concern. The plaintiff argued that he had contracted lung cancer as a result of smoking the manufacturer's cigarettes. Two months after filing the suit, the plaintiff died.

Recently an appeals court ruled that the cigarette manufacturer was liable for the death by cancer of a smoker who used its cigarettes. The court reasoned that the plaintiff's widow was entitled to damages because of the manufacturer's implied assurance that its cigarettes were "wholesome and fit for the purpose intended." The plaintiff, though no longer alive, had won his case.

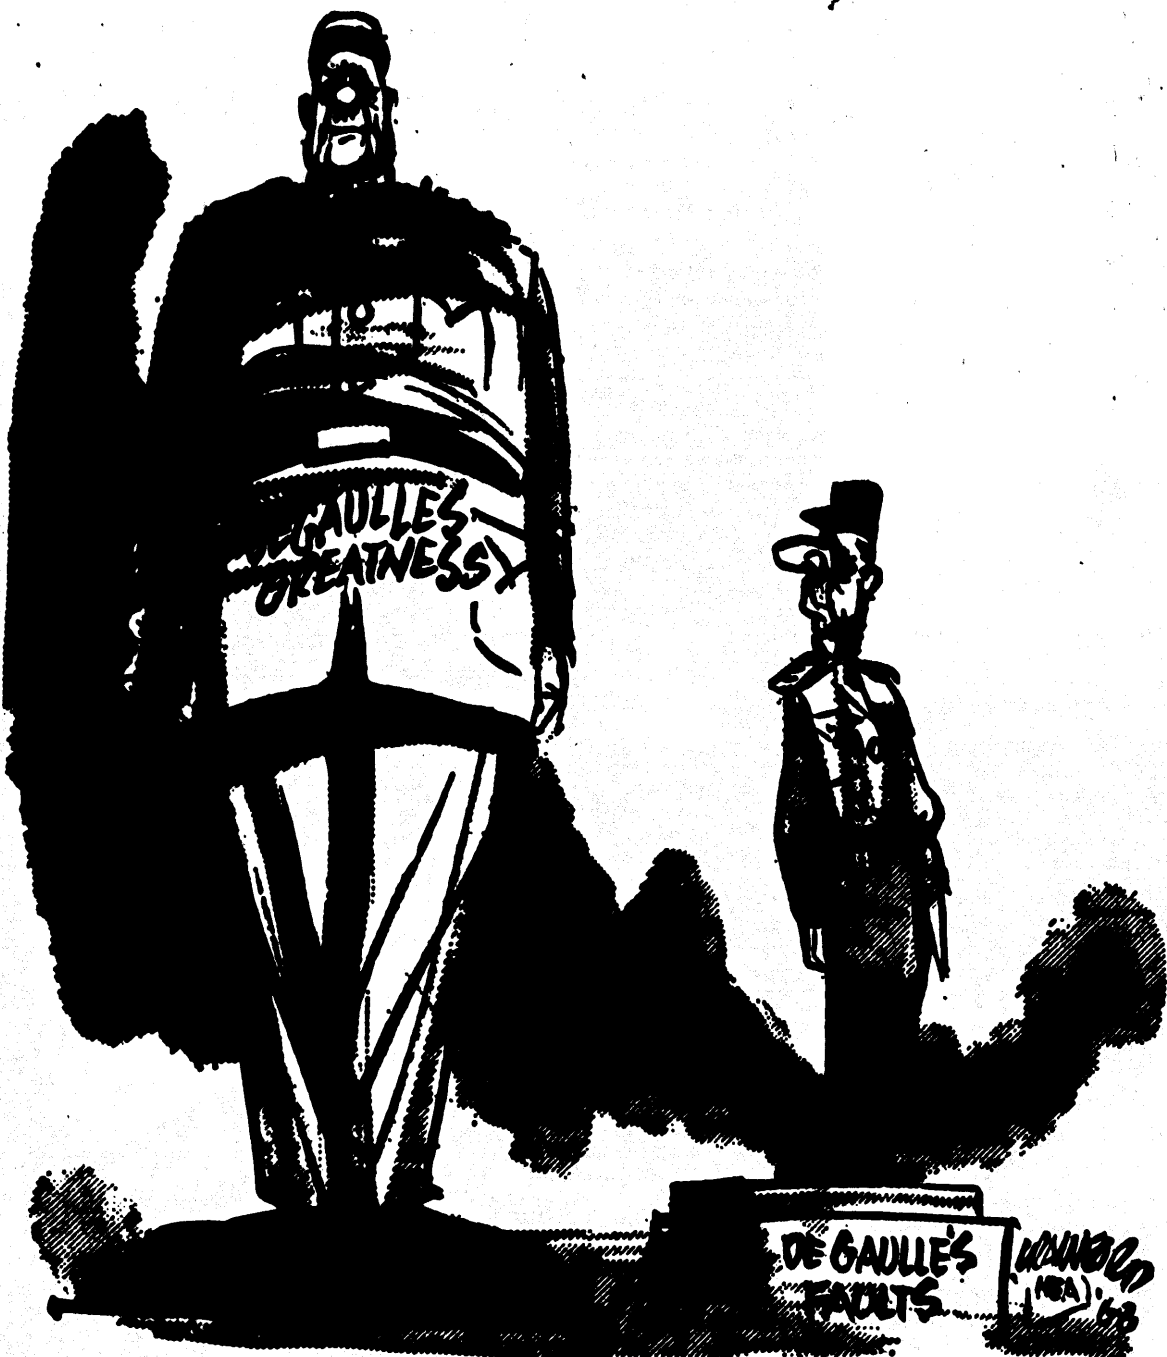

This court decision underlines the connection between smoking and early death from lung cancer. The decision embodied an urgent message for heavy smokers.

The irony is that cigarette companies are now protected against such suits. Each pack of cigarettes bears a printed warning to the smoker about the hazards to his health. Although the cigarette companies themselves fought this federal regulation, they can now enjoy its protection.

DeGaulle Served In France's Need

By DON OAKLEY

It was Winston Churchill who said that he had not been made prime minister to preside over the liquidation of the British Empire.

Now Charles de Gaulle, whose Cross of Lorraine Churchill called one more cross he had to bear during World War II, has said, in effect, that he was not made president to preside over the disintegration of the Fifth French Republic.

Churchill left the scene and Britain carried on, albeit as a steadily diminishing reflection of her former glory which no one, not even another Churchill, could have restored.

But when De Gaulle goes, what becomes of France?

The question has been asked many times in the past, but never with such urgency as today. De Gaulle must go, sooner or later — not so soon perhaps as many had come to expect in recent days, yet hardly as late as 1972, when his term legally expires.

Louis XIV said, "L'Etat, c'est moi." "I am the state." De Gaulle has said, by actions if not words, "La France, c'est moi."

For the past 10 years, De Gaulle has been France. His love for France, his faith in her immortal grandeur, he has publicly stated again and again. He has led the people with this vision, has called on them repeatedly to be worthy of it — and of him.

Yet his private disdain for mortal Frenchmen, whom he has called cowards and sheep, has been no secret, either.

It is this that may deny him history's ultimate laurel wreath. Like Napoleon, he may be remembered as a great leader, but not as a great human being; as a towering figure in France's history, but not as a builder of anything lasting; as one who considered himself too big for his countrymen, or his countrymen too small for him, and too convinced of his own infallibility and indispensability to prepare the way for other men to succeed him.

When De Gaulle goes, what will he have left behind? Nothing more than 10 years of political instability, paid for at the price of how many years of instability after him?

It is as if George Washington had assumed autocratic powers after the Revolution, as many urged him to, in order to bring unity to the jealous, quarreling states. If he had, how would we remember him now?

De Gaulle, of course, was no more of an autocrat than the people wanted him to be. His faults were the faults of Frenchmen themselves. But his greatness also partook of the greatness of the French. The latter quality far overshadows the first.

Frenchmen, unfortunately, seem to suffer from an inherent inability either to live with or without the presence of a charismatic leader for very long. France is now undergoing one of her periodic times of troubles. The hour glass for De Gaulle is running out and France is turning herself upside down again.

Measure of History

What this will mean for Western Europe and the United States, what effects it will have on the economic and military posture of the free world, what the real danger is of a Communist takeover in France, is not yet clear.

Until and unless a new democratic equilibrium is reached inside France, the world outside France will miss De Gaulle's firm rule, despite the burden his Cross of Lorraine has often meant to the policies of the United States and Britain and others. Someday, the French, too, will miss him and pay him the homage he deserves.

For one thing history will surely say of Charles De Gaulle: He was there, always, when France needed him.

Luther Left Church, Says Priest, Because Of Misunderstanding

DETROIT (AP) — A Roman Catholic scholar told a national interfaith audience Sunday that had Martin Luther stayed within the Church of Rome he would have been canonized as "the greatest saint of the Church since St. Francis of Assisi."

The Rev. Harry J. McSorley of St. Paul's College, Washington, D.C., said misunderstanding, poor communications and a Catholic Church which was at that time "not too Catholic" caused the ultimate break.

The priest made his comment at the National Workshop for Christian Unity in Detroit.

Contrary to Catholic misunderstanding, Father McSorley said, Luther was well aware of the necessity of living a life of Christian love and service.

"As soon as he became aware that some were misunderstanding his teaching on 'faith alone,' Luther clarified his position by stating that he was not opposing the truly good works that proceed from faith," he explained.

Luther, he said, objected to the so-called "proud good works" that a man thinks he can perform by his own efforts without the grace of God.

Father McSorley scoffed at ancient charges that Luther left the Church of Rome because of his inability to keep his monastic vows.

Luther, he said, deliberately remained unmarried for four years "precisely because he didn't want people to say he left simply to get married."

Efforts have been made to find out who Luther was, the priest added, "at the expense of finding out what he really said and what he really stood for."

By DON OAKLEY

It was Winston Churchill who said that he had not been made prime minister to preside over the liquidation of the British Empire.

Now Charles de Gaulle, whose Cross of Lorraine Churchill called one more cross he had to bear during World War II, has said, in effect, that he was not made president to preside over the disintegration of the Fifth French Republic.

Churchill left the scene and Britain carried on, albeit as a steadily diminishing reflection of her former glory which no one, not even another Churchill, could have restored.

But when De Gaulle goes, what becomes of France?

The question has been asked many times in the past, but never with such urgency as today. De Gaulle must go, sooner or later — not so soon perhaps as many had come to expect in recent days, yet hardly as late as 1972, when his term legally expires.

Louis XIV said, "L'etat, c'est moi." "I am the state," De Gaulle has said, by actions if not words, "La France, c'est moi."

For the past 10 years, De Gaulle has been France. His love for France, his faith in her immortal grandeur, he has publicly stated again and again. He has fed the people with this vision, has called on them repeatedly to be worthy of it — and of him.

Yet his private disdain for mortal Frenchmen, whom he has called cowards and sheep, has been no secret, either.

It is this that may deny him history's ultimate laurel wreath. Like Napoleon, he may be remembered as a great leader, but not as a great human being; as a towering figure in France's history, but not as a builder of anything lasting; as one who considered himself too big for his countrymen, or his countrymen too small for him, and too convinced of his own infallibility and indispensability to prepare the way for other men to succeed him.

When De Gaulle goes, what will he have left behind? Nothing more than 10 years of political instability, paid for at the price of how many years of instability after him?

It is as if George Washington had assumed autocratic powers after the Revolution, as many urged him to, in order to bring unity to the jealous, quarreling states. If he had, how would we remember him now?

De Gaulle, of course, was no more of an autocrat than the people wanted him to be. His faults were the faults of Frenchmen themselves. But his greatness also partook of the greatness of the French. The latter quality far overshadows the first.

Frenchmen, unfortunately, seem to suffer from an inherent inability either to live with or without the presence of a charismatic leader for very long. France is now undergoing one of her periodic times of troubles. The hour glass for De Gaulle is running out and France is turning herself upside down again.

What this will mean for Western Europe and the United States, what effects it will have on the economic and military posture of the free world, what the real danger is of a Communist takeover in France, is not yet clear.

Until and unless a new democratic equilibrium is reached inside France, the world outside France will miss De Gaulle's firm rule, despite the burden his Cross of Lorraine has often meant to the policies of the United States and Britain and others. Someday, the French, too, will miss him and pay him the homage he deserves.

For one thing history will surely say of Charles De Gaulle: He was there, always, when France needed him.

Luther Left Church, Says Priest, Because Of Misunderstanding

DETROIT (AP) — A Roman Catholic scholar told a national interfaith audience Sunday that Martin Luther stayed within the Church of Rome he would since have been canonized as "the greatest saint of the Church since St. Francis of Assisi."

The Rev. Harry J. McSorley of St. Paul's College, Washington, D.C., said misunderstanding, poor communications and a Catholic Church which was at that time "not too Catholic" caused the ultimate break.

The priest made his comment at the National Workshop for Christian Unity in Detroit.

Contrary to Catholic misunderstanding, Father McSorley said, Luther was well aware of the necessity of living a life of Christian love and service.

"As soon as he became aware that some were misunderstanding his teaching on 'faith alone,' Luther clarified his position by stating that he was not opposing the truly good works that proceed from faith," he explained.

Luther, he said, objected to the so-called "proud good works" that a man thinks he can perform by his own efforts without the grace of God.

Father McSorley scoffed at ancient charges that Luther left the Church of Rome because of his inability to keep his monastic vows.

Luther, he said, deliberately remained unmarried for four years "precisely because he didn't want people to say he left simply to get married."

Efforts have been made to find out who Luther was, the priest added, "at the expense of finding out what he really said and what he really stood for."

He said Catholic ecumenical theologians have no interest in whitewashing Luther, "being fully aware of his exaggerations, misleading slogans and antisemitism."

But, he added, these were common to Luther's age. "The young Luther came early to see that certain theological opinions he had learned were incompatible with the gospel," Father McSorley said.

"When he vigorously reacted against the view of certain theologians that sinful man — not God — takes the first step in re-establishing a right relationship with God, he was... attacking a 'Catholicism that was not fully Catholic.'"

Jim: "You have told me many times that when you first played in expert competition, the late P. Hal Sims was the best player of all. What was his strongest point?"

Oswald: "He knew more about the play of the cards than anyone. In those days every expert knew a good deal about squeezes and end plays but, as far as I know, Hal was the only one who knew much about safety plays. Of course, they all knew the very common ones. It was the unusual ones that no one but Hal knew."

Jim: "I see you are showing a hand that is cold for seven no-trump the way the cards lie but will only produce six no-trump if South makes a safety play in clubs. Was Mr. Sims the declarer?"

Oswald: "No, I was. The game was rubber bridge and I had committed some form of lese majesty when I opened two no-trump. Hal did not like his partners to bid no-trump, but that didn't stop him from taking me right to six. I wasted no time with the hand. At trick two I led a club to dummy's jack. Then I cashed the ace of clubs and when both opponents followed there were 13 top tricks. Hal remarked, 'You came out all right, but you played the hand like a millionaire and risked your contract. If East had won the first club with a singleton queen, you would have gone down.'"

Jim: "I remember your teaching me this play right after you got back from the Korean war. The sure-thing play against all combinations except five in one hand is to play dummy's ace of clubs, return to your own hand and lead toward the jack. If clubs broke 3-2 you were never in jeopardy. If either opponent held four you would take care of his case."

Oswald: "You were almost 20 when I taught you. In line with modern education I assume that you will teach Jim O. (James Oswald Jr.) before he is 10."

Dear Ann Landers: I am 22 and have been happily married for three years. My husband will soon be leaving for Vietnam. Recently he asked me if I would remarry if something should happen to him. I am a realistic person and I believe in telling the truth. I replied, "Yes, I think I probably would."

He looked shocked at first and then he became angry and shouted, "I couldn't stand the thought of someone else having you — and living off my insurance in the bargain."

This really hurt me, Ann. It isn't as if I'd be looking for anyone. It's just that since I'm so young and we have no children I don't think I should spend the rest of my life in mourning. Am I wrong to feel this way? Should I have lied to make him feel good? I'd appreciate your opinion. — HONEST BUT GUILTY

Dear H. But G.: Questions that start with "What would you do if —" are best answered this way: "It's impossible to predict what I would do if — I'd have to wait and see."

Dear Ann Landers: What has become of front doors? I am getting sick and tired of being told when I ring the front bell — "Please go to the back door. I just scrubbed the entrance hall." I always wonder for whom the entrance hall was scrubbed — Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, maybe?

Recently I was just about to ring the front bell when the electric doors of the attached garage flew open. "Come in through the garage," a voice ordered. "We just put down new carpeting."

I was brought up with carpeting and I'm not a pig who doesn't know enough to wipe my shoes on the doormat before entering a home. Furthermore, I've always been under the impression that side doors and back doors were for tradespeople and servants.

Tying Man's Mouth Shut Cures SnORES

Dear Ann Landers: My heart ached for that young bride who had circles under her pretty blue eyes because her snoring groom kept her awake until dawn. I'd like to offer a solution that worked for my Aunt Emma and Uncle Wallace. She thought it up herself.

Aunt Emma read up on snoring and found out that most people snore because their mouths flop open and a piece of loose tissue flutters when the person breathes. She concluded that if she could keep Uncle Wallace's mouth shut the problem would be solved.

So Aunt Emma took strips of muslin and tied Uncle Wallace's mouth shut every evening just before bedtime. They are both gone now but they were happily married for 45 years.

Please print this letter. It could save some marriages. — WESTCHESTER

Dear Westy: Strips of muslin only? No embalming fluid? Your uncle must have been a saint to tolerate such treatment.

Sorry, I can't endorse your "solution." Tying a man's mouth shut could lead to problems more serious than snoring. He couldn't say "I love you" or anything.

Navy Pilots Blast Reds' Storage And Bridge Areas

SAIGON (AP) — Flying 67 missions from carriers in the Tonkin Gulf, U.S. Navy pilots reported causing unusually heavy damage to truck traffic and oil and ammunition storage areas in North Vietnam's panhandle.

"I've never seen anything like it," reported Lt. (J.G.) Worth A. Kramer, 36, of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., a radar intercept officer. "After the bombs went off, large flames flared up and then settled down into fiercely burning fires. We could still see the fires 80 miles at sea."

The raid Saturday was made about three miles east of Vinh and the Navy said 27 secondary explosions and about 10 oil fires were started in what was described as a truck park.

Several bridges three to five miles west and south of Vinh were attacked by pilots from the carrier enterprise Saturday.

"This was our most successful bridge strike yet," reported Capt. Robert J. Thomas, 40, of East Lansing, Mich. "I went back over the target area and four bridges were down. That's four out of the six bridges assigned."

Killed By Truck

MACKINAW CITY (AP) — A 20-month-old girl, Cindy Darrow, was killed Saturday while playing in the driveway of her home, when she was struck by a garbage truck. Her death was not included in the weekend traffic fatality count since the accident happened on private property.

WILDLIFE YOUNGSTERS should be left in the wild, the Michigan Conservation Department stresses. The parents of most fawns, cub bears and infant rabbits are near at hand and will return to parental care if they are undisturbed, the department says. Because someone captured this fawn near a farm in Delta County, the department had to claim the animal and turn it over to the Cusino Wildlife Research Station in Alger County to be reared until it can be released. Conservation Officer Frank Opolka, Escanaba, who transferred the fawn to Cusino, is shown with the deer.

The raid Saturday was made about three miles east of Vinh and the Navy said 27 secondary explosions and about 10 oil fires were started in what was described as a truck park.

Several bridges three to five miles west and south of Vinh were attacked by pilots from the carrier enterprise Saturday.

"This was our most successful bridge strike yet," reported Cmdr. Robert J. Thomas, 40, of East Lansing, Mich. "I went back over the target area and four bridges were down. That's four out of the six bridges assigned."

Killed By Truck

MACKINAW CITY (AP) — A 20-month-old girl, Cindy Darrow, was killed Saturday while playing in the driveway of her home, when she was struck by a garbage truck. Her death was not included in the weekend traffic fatality count since the accident happened on private property.

WILDLIFE YOUNGSTERS should be left in the wild, the Michigan Conservation Department stresses. The parents of most fawns, cub bears and infant rabbits are near at hand and will return to parental care if they are undisturbed, the department says. Because someone captured this fawn near a farm in Delta County, the department had to claim the animal and turn it over to the Cusino Wildlife Research Station in Alger County to be reared until it can be released. Conservation Officer Frank Opolka, Escanaba, who transferred the fawn to Cusino, is shown with the deer.

Presbyterians Reshape Synod

Delegates to the 134th annual meeting of the Synod of Michigan of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. at Alma College June 12-13 voted to restructure their organization.

The new structure will be functional in form, according to the Rev. Herbert S. Schroeder, Saginaw, chairman of the Special Committee on Mission and Structure.

The recommendation of the committee to have delegates elected by presbyteries for the annual meetings was defeated by a narrow vote which means the meetings will continue to be "open" with clergy and elders from all individual churches eligible to officially participate.

It was voted to hold the special reorganization meeting Oct. 16 in East Lansing.

The churchmen voted to join Project Equality of Michigan, Inc., and to include $3,000 in the 1969 budget for it. The Synod endorsed a plan for a series of seminars on the urban and racial crisis for clergymen and laymen. It also recommended to local churches that they utilize resources represented by the Michigan Peace Education Program.

Delegates voted for the Synod to purchase 120 acres of property nine miles northeast of Lapeer for $100,000 to be used for a camp and a retreat center. The money for this will come from contributions made to the Fifty Million Fund. The Camp and Conference Committee advised that the lodge and indoor center at Howell has been re-constructed and refurbished at a cost of $30,000 and is now being used by churches and presbyteries.

A budget of $395,000 for Synod causes for 1969 was adopted to support Alma College, Presbyterian College Trustee Corp., Michigan Council of Churches, Christian Education, Psychological and Counseling Services, Project Equality, and a priority item for National Missions.

Dr. Donald G. Lester, Grand Rapids, reported that the Synod exceeded its goal for the Fifty Million Fund with commitments in the amount of $4,383,635.

Experts Tell
How To Cook
With Briquets

Here are some helpful hints from barbecue experts on broiling and roasting meat over barbecue briquets. Outdoors or in, summer or winter, results will be flavorful.

If you plan to roast on the rotisserie, choose a rib cut, tenderloin, or high quality sirloin tip rump or eye of round. Allow 1/2 to 3/4 pound per serving for boneless roasts, one pound for bone-in cuts.

Cooking time varies with the cut—its size, shape and initial temperature—equipment used, cooking temperature and desired degree of doneness. Allow 12 to 20 minutes per pound for medium rare roasts, 15 to 25 minutes for medium-well.

Roasting On The Rotisserie
Stack briquets two or three deep at back of the fire bowl. Add or remove coals, or adjust rotisserie height, to provide an even, moderate temperature. Insert rotisserie rod lengthwise through center of roast. Balance roast and tighten spit forks. Roast must turn with the rod.

Use meat thermometer to determine doneness. Insert the thermometer at an angle to the roast, but not in the fat, or on bone or rotisserie rod. Locate thermometer so that it will clear coals, drip pan and grill.

Attach rotisserie rod and start motor. Place drip pan so it will catch drippings. Remove roast when thermometer is about 5 degrees below desired degree of doneness. Allow to set for 20 minutes before serving. It will continue to cook and carve more easily.

Broiling On The Grill
For hearty appetites, allow 1/2 to 3/4 pounds of boneless beef or one pound of bone-in cuts per person. Spread coals over cooking area. Leave about one inch between coals to reduce flame-ups. If dripping fat flames, squirt with water.

Place steaks, burgers or kabobs on the grill. Cooking time will vary from 5 to 10 minutes per side for beef-burgers, from 6 to 8 minutes per side for one-inch medium-rare steaks, and from 10 to 15 minutes per side for a 1 1/2-inch medium-well steak. Kabobs require from 15 to 30 minutes total time depending on the size of the cubes.

Use a grill thermometer to measure temperature at grill level. Control temperature by adjusting grill height, or by adding or removing briquets. Keep a small supply of ignited briquets alongside of the fire bowl.

Wins Open, Ties Record

Laughing Lee Trevino No Joke To Golf Pros

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — He's a joker, a quipster, a wise-cracking comedian, but there could be the stamp of golfing greatness on laughing Lee Trevino.

He came up the hard way, from caddy and boot black. He's victory-hungry and tough-minded as the marine he once was.

And, at 28 the brand new U.S. Open golf champion is going to be around a while.

He proved in a single year he could play with the world's best professionals. And now he's shown that he can beat the best — and beat them in record-shattering fashion.

Sunday's triumph was his first professional tournament victory. But you can bet the rent money it won't be his last.

To Keep Playing
"I'm going to keep on playing as well as I can, and as long as I can," he said. "Sure, I'm going to play some bad rounds. I've played bad rounds before. But I'll keep playing. I'll be playing this game when I'm 100 years old."

His 275 winning total matched the lowest score ever shot in the open, set last year by Jack Nicklaus. And his four sub-par rounds on the 6,983-yard Oak Hill Country Club course set a record in this most prestigious and demanding of all the world's golf tournaments.

He had rounds of 69, 68, 69, 69 — four consecutive under par, and never matched by all the greats who have played the Open. No one before had ever done it.

But still Trevino wasn't satisfied.

"I came up 18 looking for a birdie," he said. "I wanted all the records. A birdie would have broken Nicklaus' scoring mark.

He didn't get it. In fact, he had to scramble to salvage par. "Let go for a birdie here," his caddy, Kevin Quinn, told him. "Let it all out."

He did, but hooked his tee shot into the left rough.

Doesn't Play Safe

"It was a bad lie," Trevino said. "Usually, I'd use a wedge back to the fairway. But I didn't want to be remembered as the Open champion who wedged in. So I took a six-iron and tried to reach the green."

But he only moved it further down the rough.

"Then I got the wedge, went for the green and got it about four feet from the pin. And I made the putt."

He started the day one stroke

back of Bert Yancey, his playing partner, and both had bogeys on the first hole. But Yancey faded back with putting troubles, and then Nicklaus challenged, moving within three strokes.

That threat was repulsed when Trevino rolled in 35 and 20-foot birdie putts on the 11th and 12th holes.

"Man, I just wanted to get so far out in front I could bogey in," Trevino said.

Nicklaus finished with a 67 for 279 and second place. Yancey, the leader at the end of play each of the first three days, fell back to a 76 for a 281 and third.

Bobby Nichols was fourth with a 69 for 282, followed by Don Bies and Steve Spray, at 284. Spray closed with a 65, matching the best closing round ever shot in the Open, and tying the record for nine holes, 30 coming home.

Palmer At 361
Arnold Palmer closed with a 75 for 301 and 56-year-old Sam Snead had a two-under-par 68 for 286.

Trevino made his debut on the pro tour in the 1967 Open, finishing fifth. The $5,000 he won there — he was a $30 a week assistant pro before that — launched him on the tour.

He's won about $120,000 since then and now owns one-third of the club where he once worked, Horizon Hills in El Paso, Tex.

And what about the $30,000 first-prize money from the Open, the Mexican-American was asked.

"I'm gonna buy the Alamo and give it back to Mexico," he quipped.

MARTIN, ANGLIN WIN PINE GROVE TOURNEY

IRON MOUNTAIN — A 30-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole by Jerry Martin of Escanaba Highland gave Martin and Ed Anglin of Iron Mountain victory Sunday in the first Pine Grove Country Club best-ball golf tournament.

Martin and Anglin had tied Dan Flaminio and Carlton Pollard at the end of regulation 36 holes with two-under-par scores of 142 over the rugged Pine Grove course.

Pollard had a chance to tie Martin's birdie on the playoff hole, but his 12-foot putt missed.

Martin and Anglin turned in identical scores of 71 both Saturday and Sunday.

Bill Smith, Saul Ste. Marie, and Dick Sieradecki, Houghton, teamed to tie Rick Magoon and Bill Vasseau of Marquette for third place at 143. Smith and Sieradecki were awarded third place by matching cards.

Miss Bardahl Captures Race

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Bill Schumacher of Seattle, Wash., piloted his "Miss Bardahl" unlimited hydroplane to victory Sunday in the first Wisconsin Cup race on Lake Monona.

Schumacher's yellow and black-checkered hydroplane averaged 96.73 miles per hour in besting four other high-powered boats in the final heat over the 15-mile course.

Schumacher, 25, picked up $4,500 for the hydroplane's owner, Mrs. Evelyn Bardahl, Manchester of Seattle, with the first place finish.

A crowd estimated at between 25,000 and 30,000 were on hand for the five-hour long show. Thirteen hydroplanes were entered.

Runnerup to "Miss Bardahl" in the feature event was "Seavair Probe," piloted by Walter Kade of Detroit. Kade averaged 91.2 m.p.h.

Jack Regas of San Leandro, Calif., piloted "Notre Dame" to a third place finish and Tommy Fulgs of Detroit, finished fourth with "My Gypsy."

The fifth entry in the finale, "Miss U.S.," encountered mechanical trouble on the first lap and failed to finish. Driver Bill Muncey of Seattle said he was forced to drop out because of either gear shift or crankshaft trouble.

Mets Ruin Mound Move

By The Associated Press

Herman Franks thought he'd put one over on Gil Hodges and Atlanta was afraid Joe Torre had bounced one over on the Chicago Cubs.

Franks had his lefty-righty strategy cross up in the second game as Hodges' New York Mets nipped the San Francisco Giants 3-1 for a split of their Sunday doubleheader. Ray Sadecki's five-hitter had given the Giants a 4-1 first game victory.

Torre's long double scored Hank Aaron from first base with the only run of Atlanta's 1-0 11-inning victory over Chicago but only after it came dangerously close to bouncing over the wall for a ground rule two-bagger that would have left Aaron at third.

In other National League games, Pittsburgh swept a doubleheader from Houston 3-1 and 11-2, St. Louis trimmed Cincinnati 4-2 and Los Angeles spotted Bob Skinner's managerial debut by tripping Philadelphia 2-1.

Switch Backfires
Franks started left-hander Bill Henry in the second game and pulled a quick switch to righty Bob Bolin in the first inning after Hodges had inserted some right-handed strength in his starting line-up.

Bolin came on to face right-handed batter Cleon Jones with Don Bosh on first base and one out. Jones crossed up the strategy with an RBI double and then scored another run on a pair of wild pitches. Art Shamsky later homered for New York's final run.

In the opener, the Giants tagged Dick Selma with his first loss after six victories as Willie Mays and Jack Hiatt hammered home runs. Mays' leadoff shot in the sixth inning snapped a scoreless tie.

Torre, who suffered a broken jaw when hit by a pitch by Chuck Hartenstein early in the season, paid the Chicago reliever back a bit with his game-winning double.

"I was just tired of catching," he laughed later. "I just wanted to end it."

Aaron had walked and was running when Torre hit Hartenstein's pitch to right center. "I was afraid the ball was going to bounce over the fence and Aaron would have to stop at third," said Manager Luman Harris.

It stayed in play and Aaron scored easily, making a winner of reliever Jim Britton, who had taken over for Phil Niekro in the 10th.

John Edwards drove in a pair of runs with a fifth inning single and the Cardinals dropped Cincinnati. Edwards' hit climaxed a three-run comeback for the Cards, who spotted the Reds a 2-0 ledge on Leo Cardenas' bases-loaded single.

Bob Bailey scored Los Angeles' winning run on a fourth inning passed ball and the Dodgers beat the Phillies in Skinnars' first game as Philadelphia manager.

The Dodgers were leading 1-0 when Bailey and Zoilo Versalles singled starting the fourth against loser Rick Wise. Then catcher Mike Ryan let a pitch get away and Bailey scored. Wise homered for the Phillies' only run.

If I switch from

I'll get cleaner heat.
Right?
Wrong.

The old wives' tale that oil heat is dirtier than gas is totally untrue. They're equally clean. Chemical analysis shows it's cooking fats, tobacco smoke and airborne dust that cause dirt, not heating. Any way you figure it, switching from oil heat to gas won't make your heat more modern. Today's fuels give equally modern heat. For service and equipment as modern, or more so, than gas, change to Standard Oil Hot Line Service. Wins Open, Ties Record

Laughing Lee Trevino No Joke To Golf Pros

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — He's a joker, a quipster, a wise-cracking comedian, but there could be the stamp of golfing greatness on laughing Lee Trevino.

He came up the hard way, from caddy and boot black. He's victory-hungry and tough-minded as the marine he once was.

And, at 28 the brand new U.S. Open golf champion is going to be around a while.

He proved in a single year he could play with the world's best professionals. And now he's shown that he can beat the best — and beat them in record-shattering fashion.

Sunday's triumph was his first professional tournament victory. But you can bet the rent money it won't be his last.

To Keep Playing
"I'm going to keep on playing as well as I can, and as long as I can," he said. "Sure, I'm going to play some bad rounds. I've played bad rounds before. But I'll keep playing. I'll be playing this game when I'm 100 years old."

His 275 winning total matched the lowest score ever shot in the open, set last year by Jack Nicklaus. And his four sub-par rounds on the 6,962-yard Oak Hill Country Club course set a record in this most prestigious and demanding of all the world's golf tournaments.

He had rounds of 69, 68, 69, 69—four consecutive under par, and never matched by all the greats who have played the Open. No one before had ever done it.

But still Trevino wasn't satisfied.

"I came up 18 looking for a birdie," he said. "I wanted all the records. A birdie would have broken Nicklaus' scoring mark.

He didn't get it. In fact, he had to scramble to salvage par. "Let go for a birdie here," his caddy, Kevin Quinn, told him. "Let it all out."

He did, but hooked his tee shot into the left rough.

Doesn't Play Safe
"It was a bad lie," Trevino said. "Usually, I'd use a wedge back to the fairway. But I didn't want to be remembered as the Open champion who wedged in. So I took a six-iron and tried to reach the green."

But he only moved it further down the rough.

"Then I got the wedge, went for the green and got it about four feet from the pin. And I made the putt."

He started the day one stroke

back of Bert Yancey, his playing partner, and both had bogeys on the first hole. But Yancey faded back with putting troubles, and then Nicklaus challenged, moving within three strokes.

That threat was repulsed when Trevino rolled in 35 and 20-foot birdie putts on the 11th and 12th holes.

"Man, I just wanted to get so far out in front I could bogey in," Trevino said.

Nicklaus finished with a 67 for 279 and second place. Yancey, the leader at the end of play each of the first three days, fell back to a 76 for a 281 and third.

Bobby Nichols was fourth with a 69 for 282, followed by Don Bies and Steve Spray, at 284. Spray closed with a 65, matching the best closing round ever shot in the Open, and tying the record for nine holes, 30 coming home.

Palmer At 301

Arnold Palmer closed with a 75 for 301 and 56-year-old Sam Snead had a two-under-par 68 for 286.

Trevino made his debut on the pro tour in the 1967 Open, finishing fifth. The $6,000 he won there — he was a $30 a week assistant pro before that — launched him on the tour.

He's won about $120,000 since then and now owns one-third of the club where he once worked, Horizon Hills in El Paso, Tex.

And what about the $30,000 first-prize money from the Open, the Mexican - American was asked.

"I'm gonna buy the Alamo and give it back to Mexico," he quipped.

MARTIN, ANGLIN WIN PINE GROVE TOURNEY

IRON MOUNTAIN — A 30-foot birdie putt on the first extra hole by Jerry Martin of Escanaba Highland gave Martin and Ed Anglin of Iron Mountain victory Sunday in the first Pine Grove Country Club best-ball golf tournament.

Martin and Anglin had tied Dan Flaminio and Carlton Pollard at the end of regulation 36 holes with two-under-par scores of 142 over the rugged Pine Grove course.

Pollard had a chance to tie Martin's birdie on the playoff hole, but his 12-foot putt missed.

Martin and Anglin turned in identical scores of 71 both Saturday and Sunday.

Bill Smith, Sault Ste. Marie, and Dlek Sieradski, Houghton, teamed to tie Rick Magoon and Bill Vasseau of Marquette for third place at 143. Smith and Sieradski were awarded third place by matching cards.

Flight winners included Dr. James Strong, Ontonagon, and Dave Confrey, Houghton, first flight; W. Kilberg and B. Gernt, Iron Mountain, second flight; Dean Roddy and T. Quinn, Gladstone, third flight; M. Marlett and P. Trotter, Iron Mountain, fourth flight.

Miss Bardahl Captures Race

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Bill Schumacher of Seattle, Wash., piloted his "Miss Bardahl" unlimited hydroplane to victory Sunday in the first Wisconsin Cup race on Lake Monona.

Schumacher's yellow and black-checkered hydroplane averaged 96.73 miles per hour in besting four other high-powered boats in the final heat over the 15-mile course.

Schumacher, 25, picked up $4,500 for the hydroplane's owner, Mrs. Evelyn Bardahl Manchester of Seattle, with the first place finish.

A crowd estimated at between 25,000 and 30,000 were on hand for the five-hour long show. Thirteen hydroplanes were entered.

Runnerup to "Miss Bardahl" in the feature event was "Savair Probe," piloted by Walter Kade of Detroit. Kade averaged 91.2 m.p.h.

Jack Regas of San Leandro, Calif., piloted "Notre Dame" to a third place finish and Tommy Fulgs of Detroit, finished fourth with "My Gypsy."

The fifth entry in the finale, "Miss U.S.," encountered mechanical trouble on the first lap and failed to finish. Driver Bill Muncy of Seattle said he was forced to drop out because of either gear shift or crankshaft trouble.

Year Of The Tiger? Manager Hopes So

CHICAGO (AP) — This may be the year of the horse according to the Chinese calendar, but as far as the American League baseball scene is concerned it's the year of the Tiger.

Detroit Manager Mayo Smith agrees with a "let's hope so", and Chicago White Sox Manager Eddie Stanky says "it better be the year of the Tigers or they'll be the disgrace of the league."

According to Stanky, the Tigers, off and running, "better win it big or they won't win at all."

Still burning from a sloppy five-run uprising by the Tigers, which gave Detroit a 6-1 victory and a split of a doubleheader Sunday after the Sox had taken the opener 3-2 on a tie-breaking homer by Tommy Davis, Stanky kept sticking bars into the Tigers.

"I said last year they should have won by 10 games," said Stanky. "If they don't do it big they won't do it. Why do I think so? I'll tell you when they win it or lose it. They know why."

Prodded a little more, Stanky said: "They're running scared and it's only June. Guys like Willie Horton, Bill Freehan and Norm Cash bunting for base hits? If that isn't an indication of what I mean than I can't tell you any more."

Losing 1-0 and held to one hit in seven innings by Cisco Carlos, the Tigers were facing their first doubleheader loss of the season.

Then Tom Matchick singled, Don Wert was hit by a pitch and Carlos messed up a double play ball hit by Wayne Comer to load the bases.

Major Baseball Trades Collapse

By The Associated Press

Major league teams, failing to come up with any major deals, moved around a number of second-line players before the trading deadline.

Rumored efforts by Pittsburgh to deal Maury Wills and by the New York Yankees to get a hitter for one of their front-line pitchers failed to develop.

The last trade was made only minutes before last Saturday's midnight deadline, sent Houston's regular center fielder, Ron Davis, to the St. Louis Cardinals for reserve outfielder Dick Simpson and rookie reliever Hal Gilson.

Davis, 26, the only regular traded on the last day, was hitting .212 for the Astros after

Mickey Wright Still On Top

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Mickey Wright of Dallas has cut down her tournament play, but she is still the one to beat in women's golf.

The 33-year-old Miss Wright captured the $15,000 Speedway Open Sunday—her 80th tournament triumph and her fourth in just six outings with the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour this season. She shot a four-under-par 68 and finished with a 54-hole total of 212.

She now ranks the favorite in the LPGA Championship opening Thursday at Sutton, Mass.

Carol Mann, the 6-foot-3 New Yorker who also has won four 1968 tournaments and is the LPGA's leading money winner, was forced to withdraw before the final round of the Speedway tourney when back spasms prevented her from turning her neck.

Kathy Whitworth, who led entering the final round on two 71s, hit 73 and was second with a 215 total.

Illness Claims Sam Crawford

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Sam "Wahoo" Crawford, who set major league batting records in the days when pitchers doctored baseballs with emery boards, bottle caps and soap, is dead at the age of 88.

Despite the handiwork of pitchers on a ball already much deader than today's baseball, Crawford compiled a lifetime record which still stands of 312 triples. He led both leagues in home runs and, at the time of his death, his career base hit mark of 2,964 was the ninth best in baseball history.

He died Saturday evening at Hollywood Community Hospital where he had been confined for several weeks after suffering a stroke and contracting pneumonia.

Inducted into the baseball Hall of Fame July 22, 1957, Crawford had been the oldest living member of those enshrined at Cooperstown, N.Y.

He was traded to Detroit in 1903 and played in 2,114 games for the Tigers—a mark exceeded only by Ty Cobb and Charlie Gehringer. Crawford went with the Tigers to the World Series in 1907, 1908 and 1909.

Kosco's Throw Saves Yankees

By The Associated Press

Horace Clarke staggered Rick Clark to get the New York Yankees off the ropes, but it took a super stroke by Clark Kent to get them off the hook.

California's Clark had the Yankees down 1-0 Sunday until Clark ripped a two-run eighth inning homer and Mickey Mantle unloaded another two-run blast off reliever Clyde Wright.

The Angels, however, rallied for two runs in the ninth before Andy Kosco, the bespectacled outfielder who is fast becoming New York's answer to the Superman cartoon legend, flashed to the rescue despite a false start and saved the Yankees' 4-3 victory.

With two out, one run in and two Angels on the bases, Kosco lost Bobby Knoop's fly to right in the sun. It fell for a double, scoring Rick Reichardt and sending Bubba Morton racing toward home from first base with the tying run.

But Kosco, whose broad shoulders, good looks and clutch hitting have earned him the "Clark Kent" tag around the New York clubhouse, fired a strike to the plate, easily nailing Morton for the final out.

The Yankees' third straight victory left them in seventh

Powers Edges Cooks Nine 5-3

POWERS — The Powers-Spalding American Legion baseball team opened its Waubesa League schedule Sunday with a 5-3 victory over Cooks.

A three-run double by Scott Reidy in the fifth inning was the big blow for the winners, tying the game after Cooks had jumped to a 3-0 lead.

Tim Moran, with a ninth inning assist from Tim McClure, was the winning pitcher. Pete Anderla had a pair of hits, including a triple, for the winners.

place in the American League—one game behind Oakland's surprising Athletics, who swept a doubleheader from second place Baltimore 4-2 and 6-4. The Orioles slipped 7 1/2 games behind Detroit's league leaders, who split a twin bill with Chicago, winning the nightcap 6-1 after a 3-2 first game loss.

Boston downed Cleveland 5-3 and Minnesota defeated Washington 4-2 in other single games.

Mike Hershberger's two-run pinch homer in the eighth inning capped a three-run rally that shot Oakland past the Orioles in the opener and Sal Bando drove in three runs with a double and two singles as the A's completed their sweep.

Chuck Dobson, 4-6, stopped Baltimore on five hits, including homers by Fred Valentine and Curt Blefary, in the first game. Lew Krause, 3-7, survived Frank Robinson's three-run homer in the nightcap but needed eighth inning relief help from Catfish Hunter.

Ken Harrelson's three-run homer in the eighth inning powered the Red Sox past Cleveland. Boston's Rico Petrocelli smacked a two-run homer in the seventh.

Jim Lonborg, making his first start for the Red Sox, pitched three-hit ball for five innings before giving way to Bill Landis, who picked up the victory with late help from Lee Stange.

The Twins put together three straight victories for the first time this year in trimming Washington, which has lost five

Allison Boys Capture '500'

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — The Allison boys drove side-by-side through North Carolina Motor Speedway's tricky turns with only laps to go Sunday and gave each other the "A-OK" sign.

Donnie Allison went on to win the Carolina 500-mile stock car race in a factory-sponsored Ford for his first Grand National victory ever. Older brother Bobby Allison, driving an independently financed Chevelle, finished second, although about two miles behind at the finish.

The brothers, who live about a mile apart in Hueytown, Ala., took home $25,325 of the race's $78,230 purse. Donnie won $15,675, which he'll have to split with his car owner and crew; Bobby will bank all of his winnings because he's his own car owner.

"The year of the Tiger?" asked Smith. "Why not, let 'er rip. I'm all for it."

McLain Praised

Smith praised Dennis McLain, who boosted his record to 11-2 with only two days rest.

"He's one helluva pitcher this year," said Smith. "He's got pitches now he didn't have two years ago. He's concentrating and his control is great."

Pat Dobson did some sensational relief work in the series and Smith said:

"If my starters shape up, Dobson will make the bullpen complete. But if the starters falter, then I'll have to start him, he's just too good a pitcher."

The Tigers are idle today but resume action Tuesday when they open the first of three night games against Boston at Tiger Stadium.

Stefanich Wins

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill., came from behind in the final game to defeat Dave Soutar of Detroit, 225-175, to win the Professional Bowlers Association $30,000 Portland Open. He fired a total score of 9222 and won $3,000.

With a score of 9169, Soutar finished in second place Saturday and won $1,600. Keith Witte of Vicksburg, Mich., earned $850 by finishing in tenth place with a score of 8767.

Patrick Runs Record Race

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Dave Patrick has sent his best wishes to the ailing Jim Ryun. He got a message across to Dave Wilborn, too.

Patrick of Villanova won the 1,500-meter run at the National Collegiate Athletic Association track championships Saturday in the meet-record time of 3:39.9, breezing past Wilborn of Oregon on the final backstretch.

Not in the race at this meet where Southern California defended its team title was Ryun, the world record holder at 1,500 meters and the mile, who is recuperating from mononucleosis by working out in Arizona.

The Trojans from Southern Cal had a big scare thrown into them for the team title, beating Washington State by just one point, 58-57.

Villanova was a distant third with 41 points, followed by Brigham Young at 31, UCLA at 30, Oregon State at 26 and San Jose State, 24. Individual scoring was on a 10-8-6-4-2-1 system.

Double Winners Highlight Races

It was a night for double winners in stock car racing Saturday at the U. P. State Fairgrounds.

Jim Barron and Buck Hasenberg each picked up double victories in sportsman races and Bob Iverson won twice in the modified car class before a crowd of about 1,600 fans.

Local 632 Tops Escanaba Banks

A three-run rally in the eighth inning gave UAW Local 632 a 10-7 victory over the Escanaba Banks Saturday in Babe Ruth League baseball action.

The triumph was the third straight for the union team.

After the teams battled to a 7-7 tie in regulation seven innings, Local 632 broke the deadlock on a run-scoring double by Doug Howard and a two-run triple by Mike Smith. Duke Rader and Tom Shaw shared the mound for the winners. Mark Irving was the losing pitcher.

In another game, Mead tripped Insurance 5-2. Tom Kangas was the winning pitcher and Don LeMire the loser.

Runeberg Honors Murder Victims

A Memorial Service in memory of the late president John F. Kennedy, Dr. Martin Luther King, and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was held last week when the Manistique Lodge 27, International Order of Runeberg met at the home of Miss Esther Soderbeck, Garden Ave.

The service opened with the singing of "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and an address by Mrs. Ina Bjorkman, marshal. Three candles were lighted in honor of the deceased men by Miss Adeline Wagner.

Appropriate poems were read by Mrs. Hilda Ahlstrom, U. S. A. Heggblom, Miss Wagner, Mrs. Helen Johnson, and Mrs. Sima Heggblom. A solo by Heggblom, "He's Got The Whole World In His Hands," concluded the service.

Henry Messer Dies Saturday

Mr. Messer was born Aug. 1, 1922, in Arcadia and had lived since childhood in Manistique, where he married the former Alma L. Dixon on Nov. 17, 1945. He served in World War 11 from 1940 to 1945 in Battery B, 634th Anti-Aircraft Div. and was an active member of Schoolcraft County VFW Post No. 4420.

Employed by Fairview School as a custodian and bus driver, Mr. Messer is survived by his mother, Mrs. Elmo Messer, Milwaukee; his widow; one son, Kirk, daughters Honey, Sharlot and Sandra of Manistique; and Mrs. Dennis (Diane) Troxler, Blaney Park; sisters Mrs. Robert (Eileen) Arrowood, Milwaukee, and Mrs. Thomas (Beryl) Ouimette, Chippewa Falls, Wis.; brother Jack Messer of Gulliver, and one grandchild.

Friends may call at Messier-Broulliere Funeral Home after 4 p.m. today. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. with the Rev. Robert Haring officiating. Burial will be in Fairview Cemetery.

Veteran memorial services will be held at the funeral home today at 8 p.m. All veterans are invited.

Boy, 6, Injured On Rural Road

Kevin Burrell, 6, of Post Falls, Idaho, was admitted to Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital at 9 p.m. Saturday after being struck by an automobile driven by Myrtle Schnurer, Rte. 1, Manistique.

State Police reported the accident happened on County Rd. 436, about a mile and a half north of U.S. 2 east of Manistique.

Officers said the child was walking backwards on the road with members of his family. When family members called to him that an automobile was approaching, he ran to the edge of the road but was hit before he could get out of the path.

Kevin was taken to the hospital by Public Safety ambulance. Hospital officials reported today his condition is improved. Officers reported the boy was seriously injured.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I'm all for jogging, Winterbotham! But on your OWN time!"

Bounties Are Still Lag In Conservation Progress

The conservation outlook for Michigan is filled with promise, although there is one manifestation of backward thinking on the part of lawmakers that disturbs wildlife management biologists. There are still some people who believe in bounties, or if they don't believe in bounties they yield to local pressure and vote against the elimination of a lingering evil of the old bounty system, the coyote bounty.

The Michigan Audubon Society has appealed to the legislature for repeal of the bounty law. The Audubon president, Edward M. Brigham III of Kalamazoo, says:

"Bounties are ineffectual in controlling predator numbers. The record number of coyotes was taken in 1960 after 26 years of bounty payments. Michigan bounties have wasted $4,000,000 since 1935."

We have the recent testimony of a wildlife biologist on bounties given before a committee of the Minnesota State Senate. L. David Mech probably knows as much about the timber wolf as anyone. He has spent three years as a member of the research team on Isle Royale, studying wolves and moose, under the direction of Dr. Durward L. Allen of Purdue University.

Says Dave Mech, who, by the way, is one of the modest men I know: "It is now my job, along with Dr. L. D. Frenzel, to learn all I can about the wolves in northern Minnesota. I have just spent January and February beginning this work."

"Do timber wolves cause poorer deer hunting? If they do, then why do people hunt deer where there are timber wolves? Why not hunt in counties free of timber wolves — approximately 80 per cent of the state. Most of the hunters that I know seem to do as well in the wilderness areas as anywhere else. I learned that the hunter-success rate in the timber wolf counties is equally as good as, if not better than, the statewide success rate. For the three years that I checked, 1963, 1964, and 1965, the statewide rate of deer-hunter success was 44 per cent, whereas the average rate for Lake, Cook, St. Louis, Lake-of-the-Woods, and Koochiching counties was 52 per cent and the annual rates for each of these counties ranged from 44 per cent to 60 per cent.

"The wolf bounty was removed in early 1965, and bounty proponents claim that wolves immediately increased. If that is true, they certainly didn't seem to influence deer hunting, for 1965 was our record year for the deer kill.

"Every year most deer herds reproduce by at least 50 per cent, much of which represents excess. The wolves merely harvest this excess."

"On the basis of the above considerations, it should be evident that a case cannot be made for the claim that Minnesota's timber wolf population should be eliminated or reduced. On the contrary, there are several good reasons to preserve the timber wolf: (1) This species is now considered to be in danger of extinction in the 48 contiguous states, and Minnesota has the only substantial population left in these states, (2) many people obtain esthetic enjoyment from hearing a wolf howl or just knowing that they are in country so wild that there are still timber wolves remaining there, and (3) it is extremely important to preserve certain areas in as natural a state as possible so that ecologists can study the natural mechanics of animal populations and their interactions.

"I have studied the behavior of at least 50 different wolves in the wild, watching them hunt, play, kill, and eat moose; watching them chase deer, watching them mate and fight, play, and travel. I have examined over 50 moose and 30 deer that they killed, sometimes chasing away as many as 15 wolves from a fresh kill.

"Reported average densities of timber wolves in Minnesota are as low as one wolf per 50 square miles. With snowmobiles providing trappers with easy access to mile of wilderness and with the possible return of snaring and aerial hunting, the extinction of the timber wolf in this state seems possible if a bounty is restored.

"In view of the above considerations, I strongly urge this committee to disregard the strictly emotional appeals of those who feel that any animal that has to kill other species to sustain his own life should be persecuted (except Man, of course!).

Handicapped Kids Are Graduated

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — One pupil graduated from wheelchairs. Another received a diploma for "extreme friendliness." And some received diplomas for academic achievement here when 32 youngsters, whose disabilities are so severe to allow them to attend public schools, completed the eighth grade at the Easter Seal educational and therapy center.

The diplomas were awarded to the children in areas where they had made the greatest improvement.

The appearance of the falls has been changed by two massive rock falls—76,000 tons in 1931 and one of 850,000 tons in 1954. The resulting rock pile has lowered the water level in the Maid of the Mist pool.

"The International Joint Commission has been asked to advise the governments of both countries on whether it is advisable to remove rock piles already accumulated and if so, how to do it," Tarbox explained.

The three-day convention closes Saturday with delegates visiting the nearly completed $40 million Poe Lock.

Construction on the new lock, only nine weeks from completion, has been halted since May 1 by a statewide labor dispute.

Seaway Strike Set For Friday

OTTAWA, Ont. (AP) — St. Lawrence Seaway workers are scheduled to strike at 8 a.m. EDT next Friday if their demands for higher wages are not met.

Pierre Camu, president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, said the government agency is not prepared to make any offer beyond a federal Conciliation Board recommendation of six per cent increases this year and next. The union is holding out for nine per cent each year.

"Seaway wage rates compare extremely favorably with those throughout Canadian industry generally, both as regards income levels and rate of increase," Camu said.

The workers, about 1,200 men, are represented by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, which announced the strike date.

A walkout could tie up shipping in the St. Lawrence, Welland and Sault Ste. Marie Canals at the peak of summer traffic.

The union said emergency action would be taken to maintain proper water levels and to man pumps necessary to prevent flooding.

The written history of China dates back to about 1500 B.C.
